Dear Donald,

In the midst of a spring snow storm, I figured it would be fitting for me to push a pen, and let you know that sometimes I get things straight, for I have written to Downey, have told Margaret and through her she will tell the grangers, so you need have no thoughts that both Verna and Lois will get the word. Also I will call Verna, to make certain she gets the word. I think everyone will agree with your mother that it is better things have happened now, for life would be a long time to regret. (Dear Abby or Voice of Experience?)

I am so glad there are people who can appreciate what our ancestors had to do to live. I think Louise McCue had the spinning wheel, but knowing that I never get things mixed up, I won't
